IMPROVED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE EVERYDAY LIFE OF A PEOPLE

LESSON TEXT: Ruth 1:1-37.
MEMORY SELECTION: Let not me to leave thee, or to return from following after thee: for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God—Ruth 1:16.

A good life in the midst of a corrupt and confused age—such is the life of Ruth in the awful chaos of the time of the Judges. One is reminded of the poet's words:
"How far that little candle throws its beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

It is refreshing to have a glimpse into the home life of God-fearing people who live right in spite of the low standards around them.

Ruth knew life's sorrows and its bitter disappointments. She was a widow, destitute of all she held most dear. Yet she, because of the sweet purity of her life and her devotion to God and those she loved, became an example for others.

As we read our lesson we first hear how logic speaks, then love replies, and finally a life says the final word.

I. Logic (vv. 1-13).
Tragic misfortune had visited Naomi, who with her husband and two sons had gone from Bethlehem to Moab in a time of famine. Not only had her husband died but also her two sons, who had married Gentile women, leaving three widows in one family to mourn together. Naomi craved the fellowship of her own people in her hour of trial, and she arose to return to her own land.

Her departure brought out in the two daughters-in-law the expression of kindness and loyalty which should exist in every family, but which is all too often lacking. Her own testimony concerning these girls of Moab is that they dealt kindly with her and with the dead. That word speaks volumes. There is so little genuine kindness in the world.

Both Orpah and Ruth went with her, on the way, protesting their loyal purpose to go with her all the way. Naomi met their kind offer with the only sensible answer. There was no point in leaving their homes and loved ones and going with her to another country.

Logic is so conclusive and so final. Yes, and sometimes it reaches the wrong conclusion. Love has something to say about the matter. Let us listen to its voice.

II. Love (vv. 14-17).
Orpah loved her mother-in-law. That is evident. She wept at the thought of parting, and was affectionate in her final farewell. We must not be too quick to condemn her. She did what Naomi told her to do. She responded to her love for home and kindfolk. She gave up reluctantly, but she did give up and turn back.

How glad we are that Ruth showed a deeper love. "Orpah kissed her mother-in-law, but Ruth claved unto her." There is a difference. Such love cannot be denied. It is the most precious possession that a man can have, apart from his fellowship with God. The love of a devoted father or mother, of a noble helpmate, or of a little boy or girl, these are the things that really make life worth while.

Life has put into the hands of many of us the opportunity of showing just that kind of love in these postwar days. A boy comes home crippled and disabled and a loyal sweetheart shows her undiminished love for him, even though he can never again be what he had expected to be. That is love. A mother and a father take to their hearts a promising young son who returns from overseas with a shattered nervous system, and give their lives anew to him. One could go on and on with such illustrations, but what we are saying is that it takes more than a kiss and some tears to express real love. Ruth claved unto her. Such love expresses itself in a life.

III. Life (vv. 15-17).
Literature knows no more beautiful declaration of faith and devotion than these words, and nothing could improve on it. Lord Tennyson said of the book of Ruth that "no art can improve on it." And of these verses another said, "We cannot hope to contribute to literature a sentence so exquisite and thrilling as that into which Ruth poured the full measure of a noble heart, but we can imitate her devotion" (William Jennings Bryan).

The conclusion of the story finds Ruth married to Boaz, her kinsman-redeemer, and "living happily ever after," as a true romance should end. God gives happy endings. Here we find the right attitude toward marriage, something which needs emphasis in our day. Above all, as we remember that Ruth was an ancestress of Jesus, we see anew the importance of clean, noble, godly living. What will the generations come to be able to say about our lives?

A TRIBUTE

Of the many friends of Mr. N. N. Hunter, none realize his loss more than the members of the Greene county Agricultural Society, who for so many years, have been associated with him in the production of its annual Fair.

He was one of the kindest and most amiable of men. No matter what stress or difficulty might occur, during the days of the fair, Mr. Hunter was always able to meet it in his poised warm-hearted, gentle manner, whether at the ticket window, calming the fears of a lost child, hunting up some one for an emergency telephone call, or answering many, many questions. Mr. Hunter always responded intuitively as the just, considerate gentleman that everyone knew him to be.

His benevolence was every one's heart and his purse ever ready to assist when need existed.

The Fair Board will miss Mr. Hunter (Nat) their president, as they recall his genial, faithful services to the Fair-going public.

Smart Costume Suit

It's big news that the costume suit has returned to the fashion picture. The new note of elegance that prevails in current fashions is reflected in the revival of the old-time favorite that calls for a handsome two-piece done in quality-kind wool and choice fur trim with the thought in mind that it will, together with a wardrobe of intriguing blouses and various costume jackets and bodices tops of rich fabric plus versatile accessories, sum up to almost a wardrobe in itself. The good looking fine wool costume suit pictured, selected from a collection by Chicago Fashion Industries, declares in favor of the new fitted tunic-cost suit.

Glittering Evening Wraps

There will be a big display of beautiful evening wraps at opera and social events this winter. A very charming type is the jacket that is short and boxy, made of warm woolen. It will be enhanced with bead and sequin embroidery in all over spaced designs, such as diamond shapes, dots or stripes.

"You'll be okay, Soldier!"

HIGH UP on the crowded deck of a hospital ship, a homesick Yank strains his eyes for a sign of home. On the dock below he sees a Red Cross Motor Corps driver. At the sight of her heart-warming smile, he knows she's saying:

"You'll be okay, Soldier!"

He knows, because he's heard other Red Cross girls say those same simple words of cheer. On Luzon. In the hospital. On the dock where he took ship for home. Aboard the hospital ship.

He knows that they are not mere words, for he has seen the helpful service that inspires them. He knows, too, that he can find the same friendly, understanding helpfulness in his home town Red Cross chapter.

And while this girl and her comrades throughout the world represent the Red Cross, in reality you are the Red Cross. She, the Red Cross worker, is still needed. You who make the Red Cross possible also are still needed. Without you there would be no Red Cross.

So let your dollars follow your heart. Give to the Red Cross. Give all you possibly can.

chaive of sales and distribution expense. The same model required 87 man hours of labor to produce in 1941 and 128 hours in November 1945.

The telephone and General Electric strikes have been settled by granting employees most of the wages demanded. The General Motors strike is expected to be settled almost any time now on the same basis. The threatened railroad strike has been postponed as a result of the President's order to attempt mediation under the Railway Labor Act. However, an all-out strike of coal miners of the nation seems to be in the cards for early April unless something unforeseen occurs.

Relations between the United States and Russia have been the cause of serious concern in high government circles during the past few weeks. The crisis seems to be at hand now, as the result of the firm attitude this nation has recently taken on international affairs in which the Soviet Union is involved. American-Russian relations should either grow much better or much worse within the next few days.

WE MENTION NO NAMES

The recent investigation in Xenia where charges of intoxication were made against certain students and one or more discharged, and then reinstated by the board of education on promises of good behavior in the future, has caused considerable comment in other quarters over one or more events of like nature.

We were given the tip some weeks ago of a Xenia township farmer who wanted to come to Cedarville to "clean up" on someone because liquor had been sold to a boy in teen age. Counseling with a neighbor the matter was dropped rather than submit the son to notoriety. Another case concerned a school boy who had to be carried from a Xenia dive.

The State Liquor Department had better become interested in cleaning up some of the disreputable places or a time will come when they will be out of jobs.

CHANGES IN SUBSIDIES AND PRICE CEILINGS

Changes in subsidies and price ceilings for livestock and grain were announced March 2 as further steps in carrying out the Food and Feed Conservation Program.

The cattle subsidy now being paid to feeders at the rate of 50 cents per 100 pounds of cattle will be terminated June 30, 1946. The ceiling prices for grains have been increased as follows: wheat, 3 cents a bushel; corn, 3 cents a bushel; barley, 4 cents a bushel; oats, 2 cents a bushel. Ceiling prices for rye, which go into effect June 1 will be increased by 4 cents a bushel.

No changes will be made in ceiling prices of hogs prior to Sept. 1, 1946. However the OPA is considering lowering the ceiling price on heavier weight butchers hogs after Sept. 1 and lowering the subsidy on heavier hogs before Sept. 1. Such changes would encourage farmers to finish hogs to lighter weights, thereby making more efficient use of feed grains.

WHOLESALE MEAT PRICES UP

Wholesale meat prices go up about March 11, the amount is around 45 cents per hundred pounds of beef, veal and lamb, and 55 cents per 100 pounds on pork, on an overall dressed carcass weight basis.

Ceiling prices of meat sold to the federal government will be increased about 25 cents per 100 pounds over and above the civilian increase. This is to help equalize the returns to packers on government and civilian business.

FLIES DESTROY SHOE LEATHER

Flies of various kinds have been blamed for a lot of man's troubles, and one member of the fly tribe ruins a lot of prospective shoe leather at a time when shoes are hard to find and high in price.

The hide on cattle's backs make the best shoe leather when the hide is free from imperfections. However, many cattle have the skins on their backs perforated with so many holes by the ox warble that is of little value for leather.

The life history of the ox warble or heel fly sounds like a yarn by an accomplished liar. The eggs of the heel fly are deposited on the hair on the cattle's legs. The larva hatch and bore through the skin and start a 10 month journey through the animals body which ends just beneath the skin of the back. Each larva opens a breathing hole and later emerges through the skin.

LIFE CAN BE EASIER FOR DOGS AND CATS

Lives of dogs and cats can be made much more pleasant by ridding the animals of fleas with a single application of DDT powder; and, incidentally, dog fleas are not above taking a nip at human beings when the canine pasture is short. Entomologists advise dusting a tablespoon of DDT powder on the dog from the back of his head to his tail.

The treatment may make the dog uncomfortable for several hours but DDT is a sureshot flea killer if given time. Young fleas developing on the ground or on floors can be killed by spraying the area with a 2.5 per cent suspension of DDT in water. The immature fleas are about 15 days old before becoming bloodsucking parasites.
